when national geographic first appeared in 1888 no one could have guessed it would become the worldwide success it has that first issue was sent out to just 165 subscribers today it s an astonishing 11 million people in over than 170 countries this series celebrates gilbert grosvenor s first twenty five years as editor and his maxim the mind must see before it can believe from the earliest days he filled the magazine with photographs that were a source of awe and wonder to his readers and for virtually all of them the first time they had ever seen such images taking original reporting and photos as they appeared in numerous issues and building them into a chronological single volume the books presented here cover discoveries of the lost worlds of the aztecs mayas and incas the building and opening of the panama canal the search for the origins of judaism and christianity the mysteries of the sahara the rush for the north pole and the race for the south pole the russian people before the revolution a western eye view of china in the early part of the 20th century a survey of the holy land its geography history and destiny by j t bannister it is an encouraging feature in the aspect of the present times that a greater degree of attention is being given to the sacred writings than at any former period notwithstanding the bold aggressive movements of infidelity can the one hand and of smni popery on the tather there never was a tizne when the holy scriptures were more widely diffused more extensively read or more attentively studied sabbath schools bible classes and other auxiliary means have elevated the public taste and created a craving for mental aliment of a higher order the youth of the present day not satisfied by a superficial acquaintance with the text of scripture evince commendable solicitude to excavate more deeply the mines of inspired truth and to traverse with a critical and observant eye the vast fields of biblical research hence the increased demand for works which treat of sacred geography and history and whose tendency is to elucidate the sense and display the beauties of the sacred text to meet this demand many works of unquestioned excellence have been issued from the press the voluminous and elaborate works of Bochart Wells Michaelis Calmet and Hartwell Eiorne the Jewish Antiquities of Ikenius Reland and others the observations of Harmer the Oriental Customs of Burder and the admirable illustrations of Paxton have contributed in no small degree to enrich the archives of sacred literature and have acquired a high and merited celebrity these works however are for the most part voluminous and costly to render them generally accessible few comparatively have either leisure or inclination to travel over so wide a field or to wade through the mass of learned lumber beneath which the treasures of knowledge sometimes lie concealed in the judgment of many a book was still wanted a compact and moderate priced volume which should contain in a smaller compass a condensed and systematic view of those subjects most essential to the elucidation of the sacred writings and which might spare the labour of referring to a multitude unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 we have not used OCR optical character recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 in books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc we have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy
