taking a unique approach to the study of mass communication and cultural studies mediamaking is a volume that presents the current knowledge about the relationship between media culture and society what sets this volume apart from competing texts is the approach taken and the distinguished scholarship rather than examining each major medium separately newspapers books magazines radio television film the authors contend that mass communication cannot be studied apart from the other institutions in society and the other dimensions of social life each is shaping and defining the other they hold that media can only be understood in relation to their context institutional economic social cultural and historical as such this book explores the variety of ways in which the media are involved in our social lives the authors explore the different relationships between the media and the systems of social value and social differences that organize power in contemporary society they examine how the media are reproduced and consumed and what they produce in turn theoretically and analytically organized with sections on media s relation to behavior politics media effects the public globalization organizations meaning and ideology this text offers students a more comprehensive understanding of the nature of media communication processes an absolutely necessary part of understanding contemporary life designed for courses in introduction to mass communication introduction to mass media and media and society in this updated online edition john vivian provides a cost effective and accessible version of the original text taking the phrase using the media to teach the media literally with an extensive pin coded web site while the printed book is the core content the web site provides the energy and excitement of the media there is up to date coverage of industries and issues along with a thoughtful recounting of key events in media history to give students the insight they need to understand the complexity and impact of the media in the 21st century this book argues that the no marxists mostly have it wrong although corporate media are structurally organized to maximize profits and produce content that generally helps elites achieve their goals this does not mean corporate media have less capacity to facilitate social change than entrepreneurial or other forms of media in fact historical evidence and comparative critical studies presented in this book show that mass media become more not less critical of dominant power groups institutions and value systems as they become more corporatized this proposition is part of a larger theoretical model that integrates the role of both social structure and human agency in explaining the persistence of modern capitalism the structural part of the theory also enables scholars to make predictions about the future of mass media including the ideas that the internet is stealing some of the mediating power of traditional mass media and the market power of global media will grow in absolute terms but will shrink in relative terms because of increasing competition from new and traditional media
