this volume discusses the centuries old familiarity between europe and china it explores the european nations admiration for the distant asian country and their attempt at capturing the meaning of its ancient culture and language paradise lost is john milton s elaboration of genesis into an epic poem the poem begins with milton s invocation to a muse for help the action switches to hell where satan and his followers have been banished from heaven after trying to rebel against god bitter they try to make the best of things by building the palace pandemonium all the while plotting whether to get revenge against god by war or trickery after much debate they finally decide to try to sabotage the new world of earth and mortal man that god has created satan sets off for earth and meets his offspring sin and death at the gate of hell they let him pass and he journeys onward meanwhile god sees satan approaching earth and predicts the fall of man when no one else does god s son offers to sacrifice himself to save man global perspectives in modern italian culture presents a series of unexplored case studies from the sixteenth to the twentieth century each demonstrating how travellers scientists catholic missionaries scholars and diplomats coming from the italian peninsula contributed to understandings of various global issues during the age of early globalization it also examines how these individuals represented different parts of the world to an italian audience and how deeply italian culture drew inspiration from the increasing knowledge of world otherness the first part of the book focuses on the production of knowledge drawing on texts written by philosophers scientists historians and numerous other first hand eyewitnesses the second part analyses the dissemination and popularization of knowledge by focussing on previously understudied published works and initiatives aimed at learned italian readers and the general public written in a lively and engaging manner this book will appeal to scholars and students of early modern and modern european history as well as those interested in global history mainstreaming pacifism conflict success and ethics takes on the challenge of answering the widespread objection that pacifism is ineffective the book proposes a classification of 11 effectual means to an end fraud violence force gain legality masses ideology dialogue humanity time vulnerability and shows how such means have been at work both in the pages of classical political authors machiavelli montesquieu marx and gandhi and throughout history such effectual means are not only theoretically described but are related to up to date experimental research are observed in action when conflicts arise and the general laws that govern their functioning are described the main goal of the book is to show that violence is only one of such potentially successful political means in presence of the political decision to act peacefully in international relations apt combinations of non violent effectual means may succeed over violence the challenge taken on in this book is staying faithful to the topic of political success while offering arguments for a peaceful resolution of conflicts the result is an original cross investigation which gives visibility to an intriguing notion effectuality that has been silently at work throughout political philosophy without ever having been thematized

why is it dark at night might seem a fatuous question at first sight in reality it is an extremely productive question that has been asked from the very beginning of the modern age not only by astronomers for whom it is most appropriate but also by physicists philosophers and even poets the book you have just opened uses this question as a pretext to relate in the most interesting way the history of human thought from the earliest times to the here and now the point is that if we want to appreciate the magic power of this ostensibly nave question we need to discover how it fits into the wider context of the natural sciences and learn something of the faltering steps towards an answer in doing so the author guides us through periods that we regard as the dim and distant past however as we start reading these passages we are amazed to discover just how searching were the questions the ancient philosophers asked themselves in spite of their fragmentary knowledge of the universe and how clairvoyantly they were able to gaze into its mysterious structure the author goes on to explain very graphically how this increasingly prickly question was tackled by many great men of science it is bound to come as a surprise that it was not a philosopher a physicist or an astronomer but instead the poet edgar alan poe who hinted at the right answer i know of no other similar publication that has dealt so graphically or so succinctly with a question which after four centuries of fumbling and chasing up blind alleys was only solved in our lifetime jir grygar president of czech learned society honorary chairman of the czech astronomical society a collection of essays that offers case studies that provide a coherent and organized overview of contemporary italian pedagogy it is suitable addresses the needs of instructors and teacher trainers putting in perspective different examples that can be used for more effective teaching techniques according to the actfl guidelines chinese comparative literature has a great representative in the contemporary scholar and writer qian zhongshu 1910 1998 his comparative method defies every categorization and his extensive use of quotations in seven languages the main characteristic of his style creates a collage of literary motifs and genres that constitutes a fertile field for analysis to grasp the general principles of world literature italian quotations and the influence of italian literature on the comparative method of qian zhongshu are the main concern of this analysis and are a topic never before dealt with in mainland and overseas qian xue studies the study outlines the threads that move qian zhongshu in the choice of authors and works that constitute in quotation the core of his method and answers questions on the necessity of such a consistent use of quotations and on the role that foreign literatures with a focus on the italian one have in the definition of a comparative method that seems to be all inclusive and difficult to grasp to seize an understanding of the principles that lead global literature in an enhancement of mutual comprehension between countries and peoples seems a desirable yet unrealistic goal qian zhongshu through his use of quotations to establish a dialogue between different historical epochs and distant spatial settings wants to demonstrate that this desire is attainable
