although the figure of irony has enjoyed extensive attention through important contributions to the diverse literatures addressing figurative thought and language it still remains relatively in the background compared to other figures such as metaphor and metonymy the present volume together with a 2017 collection by angeliki athanasiadou and herbert l colston aims to the further exploration of verbal and situational irony its gestural accompaniments its comprehension and interpretation its constructional diversity and its cooperation with other figures such as metaphor and hyperbole the present volume is a highly interesting collection of chapters dealing with both theoretical investigations and descriptive applications of a central figure pervading human thought and language its aim is to draw more attention to irony s diversity and its concomitant connections to other aspects of figurativeness the twenty first century has seen a surge in cross linguistic research on forms of address from increasingly diverse and complementary perspectives the present edited collection is the inaugural volume of topics in address research a series that aims to reflect that growing interest the volume includes an overview followed by seventeen chapters organized in five sections covering new methodological and theoretical approaches variation and change address in digital and audiovisual media nominal address and self and third person reference this collection includes work on cameroonian french czech dutch english from the us uk australia and canada finnish italian mongolian palenquero creole portuguese slovak and spanish in its peninsular and american varieties by presenting the work in english the book offers a bridge among researchers in different language families it will be of interest to pragmatists sociolinguists typologists and anyone focused on the emergence and evolution of this central aspect of verbal communication this volume consists of 19 papers presented at the 16th international conference on historical linguistics which was held in august 2003 in copenhagen and drew the largest number of participants and the widest array of languages that this important biannual conference has ever had as with previous volumes the papers selected cover a wide range of subjects besides the core areas of historical linguistics and this time include studies on ethnolinguistics grammaticalisation language contact sociolinguistics and typology the individual languages treated include brazilian portuguese chukchi korean danish english german greek japanese kok paponk latin newar old norse romanian seneca spanish and swedish the volume reflects the state of the art both empirical and theoretical in historical linguistics today and shows the discipline to be as flourishing and capable of new advances as ever
