provides analyses on the politico-economic relationship between Japan and China and a comparison of economic strengths between China and India in East Asian economic integration provides an overall analysis on East Asian economic integration including some observations on the recent development and future prospects of the region for more than half a century east asia has been the most dynamic and resilient economic region in the world following japan's success in its post world war two reconstruction and industrialisation a good number of east asian economies flourished the latest and the most extraordinary case is that of china's rapid economic development as the largest economy in the region china pledged to play a leading role in promoting regional economic prosperity china's economic relations with its east asian neighbours have been complex and have nonetheless grown in strength this edited volume examines china's key economic relations and efforts in participating and promoting economic globalisation as well as the overall development of east asian economic integration this book focuses on china's importance and efforts in east asian economic integration by examining the changing patterns of the growing east asian production network reviewing the process and achievement of china's efforts in internationalising its currency and evaluating the efforts to internationalise chinese firms it elaborates china's economic relations with individual neighbouring east asian economies such as taiwan hong kong asean korea and japan it discusses the political economy aspect of east asian economic integration and describes the origins and processes of east asian economic integration from the flying geese model to the numerous free trade arrangements involving the region asian regional integration which has shown remarkable progress since the end of the 1990s is at a major crossroads it faces confusion of and debate over the direction and effectiveness of integration as well as friction brought about by the rise of china meanwhile the changing balance of power among nations the rise of nonstate actors the internationalization of internal problems and the internalization of international problems are rendering the cross national structure of asia increasingly complex and multilayered signs of instability of the global economy are growing and environmental and resource challenges are deepening east asia needs new approaches to understanding the state of regional integration and mechanisms to address the challenges regional integration in east asia is the culmination of five years of intensive research on asian regional integration by waseda university it reexamines theoretical approaches to comprehending the actual state of integration in the region and presents the most compelling ones it also examines the state of cooperation in asia in areas ranging from the economy to energy and the environment security and education in addition the book offers long term historical perspectives including those of japan asean and china on asian regional integration thus it sheds light on diverse aspects levels of analysis and time spans and offers a comprehensive portrayal of the actual condition of asia and the state of attempts to build regional cooperation and institutions this volume will open a new research frontier in asian regional integration research production networks have been at the heart of the recent growth in trade among east asian countries fragmentation trade reflected mainly in the trade in parts and components is expanding more rapidly than the conventional trade in final goods this is mainly due to the relatively more favorable policy setting for international production agglomeration benefits arising from the early entry into this new form of specialization considerable intercountry wage differentials in the region lower trade and transport costs and specialization in products exhibiting increasing returns to scale the economic integration of china has deepened production fragmentation in east asia countering fears of crowding out other countries for international specialization international production fragmentation in east asia has intensified intraregional trade but has depended heavily on extraregional trade in final goods while production networks centered on china have contributed significantly to growth in east asia they also breed vulnerabilities they have not automatically led to technology spillovers and have led to an extreme interdependence across east asian countries east asia is now one of the most dynamic parts of the increasingly regionalized world economy this book explores the structure and upgrading mechanism of the highly integrated economy reviewing the previous paradigm centered on japan the focal points are on the flying geese paradigm the regional production networks a reinterpretation of the east asian crisis the post crisis transformation of the regional economy and a search for further regional cooperation this volume aims at presenting through these analyses an alternative view for and a perspective on future east asian regionalism international production networks in manufacturing particularly in machinery industries have rapidly developed over the last two decades resulting in dramatic increases in intra regional and intra industry trade providing a key source of regional growth integration and development in east asia this book provides a better understanding on how to effectively further increase sme participation in east asian production networks and in doing so identifies key challenges and issues that they need to address this book aims to not only fill the theory practice gap but also to lay solid foundations for designing national arrangements and a regional institutional frameworks to further encourage and support sme engagement and participation in regional and global production networks the book contains several country case studies and by drawing upon individual country experiences at various stages of economic development this book demonstrates the varying difficulty faced by smes in asean member countries attempting to participate in regional production networks and highlighting differences in needs and policy priorities this book offers both a more focused theme on the assessment of globalization and a rather unique approach by focusing upon the particular importance of smes and by utilizing micro level data at the firm or plant level its policy insights and the richness and uniqueness of the empirical findings will make the book an invaluable contribution to understanding east asian production networks this edited book reflects the yin yang of east asia the analogy of co existing hot and cold trends in that region to concentrate only on geopolitical competition and regional hot spots will exaggerate if not misrepresent east asia as a hobbesian world nevertheless geopolitical competition cannot be ignored because a failure of the balance of power and deterrence between china and the united states and its allies will destabilise the region there are four vectors in the geopolitics of east asia china rising the united states rebalancing to this region japan normalising as a nation state and asean emerging as a regional community the interplay of these four vectors will set the trajectory of geopolitics in east asia another focus of this volume is on the politics of identity the distinctiveness character and flavour of a group real or imagined can be cool cool as in being charming and appealing transcends national boundaries plurality and diversity of identities and cultures in east asia can be a celebration of life and humanity however xenophobic identities often based on exclusive race language religion and hegemony and its subsequent politicisation can rend a nation apart indeed the affirmation of one's identity may be at the expense or denial of the identity of the other similarly the assertion and the intricacy of identity and nationalism in east asia can also be problematic however a person or group can have multiple and different scales of identities indeed identities can be fluid and situational east asia is now experiencing significant economic growth and social change integration of east asia seems an irresistible trend as east asian countries are closely interdependent with each other and share many common interests in economic development there has been a proliferation of proposals for bilateral free trade areas in east asia in recent times these initiatives fly in the face of the long standing support of key players in the region such as japan for the mfn based non discriminatory trading system and the commitment to non discriminatory trade liberalisation and reform within apec as china establishes its role in the wto its interests are very much in an open global trading system the paper argues that the core interests of east asian economies remain in non discriminatory global trading arrangements and prosecuting those interests within the doha round of trade negotiations it suggests that a way forward in sorting out the trade distorting and protectionist effects of free trade agreements would be for east asian economies to take a lead in negotiations on strengthening wto rules on preferential trade arrangements in terms of global economic welfare the only good preferential arrangement is one that disappears in time the paper makes specific recommendations for re-vamping the rule on preferential trade arrangements with that objective in mind p 1
